A nation-wide survey of short-term care facilities revealed that more than 18,000 short-term care beds are available in acute care hospitals in the United States, providing 60,000 additional beds for this purpose. This represents 1 percent of the nation's acute care beds. A recent study of the expenditure on short-term care in England found that, in 1988-89, the average per patient cost of care was pounds sterling 2,903, a figure which has declined by one-quarter in the past 10 years. The costs of short-term care were pounds sterling 1,496 million, accounting for 15 percent of acute hospital expenditure. Although short-term care is provided for a growing proportion of in-patients, and the number of short-term care beds is increasing, there remains a shortfall of resources to meet the needs of this growing population. 5 Section 3.1.1 of the "The City of Hammond Contractor Agreement" states: It is agreed that all work to be performed under this contract shall be completed in a diligent, careful, workmanlike manner in accordance with all applicable Federal, State, and Local laws and ordinances, all safety practices, and all safety rules, regulations and requirements of the Contractor and the Engineers. The Contractor shall exercise the care of a reasonably prudent person in the conduct of work under this contract and shall be responsible for any damage to any property, or for injuries to any person (including his or her employee) and for any damage to any property, that may arise in connection with the work. Section 5.6.5 of the "General Conditions of the Contract for Construction of the Lake Michigan Outfall in the City of Hammond" provides: To the extent not in conflict with the provisions of the owner's contract with the Architect, drawings, specifications and other contract documents, and the General Conditions, Owner shall be bound by all such provisions. Section 1.1.3 of the "Specifications" provides: This proposal is based upon the following information: the drawings and specifications furnished by the Engineer, and this proposal is subject to those conditions;...
