I'm working on a rails app and want to add a personal access token to each new user but for each user I need to generate a unique url that says And store it in a database table. What is a good and flexible way of doing this? Thank you. A: You have a few options - you can do it through an API, you could just store the values in a database and then create a URL directly with your access token, or you could look into the new Google+ API. The 30th season of SNL is set to premiere on NBC this Friday. According to a brand new report, SNL has seen a 29% decline in the ratings in the last two years. But just in case you think the show is starting to lose its charm and the aftertaste of Tina Fey's presidency, it's not. In fact, SNL has a lot of staying power. According to research, NBC's flagship late-night show is #15 amongst all programs. It's on Netflix, Starz, TBS, Amazon Prime, Apple TV, Hulu, iTunes, YouTube, WWE and more. TV by the Numbers reported that in 2018, SNL will dominate the advertising market. The advertisers will spend $324,818,000 in the U.S., while the show will spend $339,000,000 on TV ads. This year, SNL will outspend all other late-night shows in the U.S. Additionally, the show will break the records by spending the most per-minute on YouTube ads in the U.S. To sum up, SNL has a very impressive platform. I wish more people understood that fact, and that's what's keeping it in the limelight.The pain of long-term unemployment is not over, even for the lucky ones who get a job For now, some of the 1.3 million people who have been unemployed for more than a year will get a check—either from a third-party agency or the state. But unlike previous times, it is not an average
