Konami has demonstrated FIFA 22's HyperMotion Technology on-stage, and below is the official teaser trailer for the game. In the video, you can see the game being powered by the technology, and witness what it is like to play in motion as well as see how the game runs on PC, Xbox One, and PlayStation 4. See below for more trailers and details of the game: The Videos: Star Child Pilot: Playable demo showcasing the game engine Star Child will be available to play on the Create a Player screen, and you'll be able to play as any real-life player that plays a real-life game of football. Create a Player: Fan Favorite Packs: FIFA Ultimate Team: Deadline: With FIFA Ultimate Team and the PlayStation 4 Pro, we will be launching two new packs for the card collection feature this October: the FIFA 20 Collector's Edition will be released on Oct. 11 with access to the FIFA 20 card pack, along with 80 official FIFA 20 cards featuring star players like Neymar Jr., Paul Pogba, Kylian Mbappé, and Eden Hazard among others. The FIFA 20 Squad Legend: Ronaldo will arrive on Oct. 18 with 20 exclusive Squad Legends, each featuring a new player and his real-life signature. We will further expand the 60-card Squad Legend roster as content is added over time, with our goal being to make sure every squad in our collection includes at least one of these squad legends. In addition, we'll be rolling out a new format for the Squad Rank requirement for the FIFA 20 Squad Packs and FIFA Ultimate Team in FIFA 22. We want to provide a better foundation for all players to get their hands on the best content in the game, while still remaining competitive and fun. For this, we'll be lowering the Squad Rank requirement for the FIFA 20 Squad Packs and FIFA Ultimate Team, so that anyone who wants to invest in the packs, will be able to do so. With regards to the teams, I want to explain a couple of changes with regards to the 2019/20 season. The context is that this will be the last year of the current Champions League format, and we've been looking at different ways to improve the competition and our fan experience, with changes we've made over the past few years being the drivers behind
