“HyperMotion Technology is our vision to harness the game's potential to replicate the real-world match experience. Every player, team, stadium and pitch is converted to a hyper-realistic, fully-dynamic virtual world in real-time,” said Matt Bilbey, FIFA Studios Head of Gameplay. “This is a defining moment for FIFA,” added Ignacio López Alcázar, Head of FIFA Gameplay. “We've set out to do something new and untried, and we're proud to deliver this level of game play innovation. While the game is now complete, we can imagine what this level of gameplay will bring to the FIFA experience.” FIFA 22 is in development for PlayStation 4, PlayStation 3 and Xbox One.1. Field of the Invention This invention relates to an electronic storage medium for storing a computer program for controlling an information processing apparatus, which is required to store a program, and also to the information processing apparatus which includes the storage medium. 2. Description of the Prior Art There are a large number of small size personal computers which are portable and hence carried all over. There are many occasions in which such computers are used in places in which there is no telephone network, and when a message has been sent to the destination of the user but the user cannot immediately read it, it may be read before it is possible for him to read it, so that the user finds this matter bothersome. There has been a proposal to provide an electronic mail system with a display such as a television screen on which the transmitted message has been displayed by using an electronic mail program, to facilitate the user reading it. Further, there is also a proposal to use a cellular phone or the like in this connection. However, it is conceivable that the displayed message is subject to some external influences during this processing, which are liable to make it impossible to read the message again.
