This is why we have a system that can be utilized offline.I was watching the news a few days back and I saw a report about a middle aged man who was running a business selling bottled water. He said that he sells his bottles of water at extremely low prices for the poor. I was aghast that he had to do such business. I felt that he was doing something that was perhaps not right and that he was motivated by monetary gain. Why should there be a man who takes time out of his day to go around the countryside selling his plastic bottle of water at very low prices? Here's an important lesson that I was reminded of. To start this off, I felt that the man at the shop was probably doing something that was not right. Most of us would probably not stand by and watch as people who are poor were sold their water for such a cheap price. However, it is not the role of anyone to judge a person's actions. Instead, we should only judge their actions and what they do. If we look at the man in the shop, we would see that he is indeed distributing bottles of water to
