The current study aimed to compare the effects of 10 commercially-used disinfectants on the growth of Brevibacillus brevis, a member of the Bacillus genus. Pure cultures of this species were exposed to 11 concentrations of each agent tested at 25, 40, 60, and 85% relative humidity, and their growth was estimated spectrophotometrically at 600 nm. Three concentrations were tested for each product at each relative humidity. Within each product, the antimicrobial activity was observed to be independent of the relative humidity. Overall, CHG and PAA, at a concentration of 2%, had the most effective and rapid bactericidal activity at the four relative humidities tested. These results may help clinicians and hospital environmental service workers to select disinfectants effective for killing bacterial contamination on environmental surfaces that are likely to dry out.Serena says she never used any of the criticism about her body as an excuse not to play Wimbledon Now the 35-year-old has revealed she has never felt fat when she competes at the All England Club. Serena Williams says she has never felt 'unworthy' of criticism on her body Williams told BBC Sport: "My attitude has been good. I've been happy. I've never had a reason not to compete. "I've never felt unworthy of whatever critique or whatever. I felt comfortable being myself. I felt like I could go out there and perform as well as I could on the court. "
