The Cavern is an adventure game designed exclusively for room-scale VR, where you need to combine the environment with a tangible sense of presence and spatial awareness. Players will need to turn every second into a meaningful action, to use the space around them to safely navigate through winding and complex pathways, empty rooms and obstacles. STORY Our adventure begins in the Lost Caverns of

Alta Mira. A group of explorers from the Age of Exploration gathered in this remote place in the past, searching for clues and clues hidden in the area. Their journey was cut short by hostile creatures and strong, unexpected twists of fate. All of the explorers were killed, but we found their notes in the nearby caves. All of their stories have been wiped away. It's up to you, to decide what the end will be for the other explorers, to determine who will survive. VISUAL The Cavern is one of the very first 'classical' VR titles, offering breathtaking visuals and a true sense of presence. The game's mechanics are optimized to achieve optimal performance on the HTC Vive, Oculus Rift and Windows Mixed Reality headsets. The Cavern is a puzzle-adventure game designed exclusively for room-scale VR. Solve puzzles, overcome riddles and venture deeper into the darkness in search of one of the greatest lost treasures of our time. Do you have what it takes to uncover the hidden secrets of the cavern, or will you just end up another lost soul? Make your way through four beautifully crafted main rooms that safeguard the ancient treasure. Each step of the way will hold multiple unique puzzles and challenges for you to investigate and solve. Find fully voiced notes from previous explorers. Learn these people's stories and utilize the equipment they left behind. Blacksmith Zhafir is a very mad and powerful sorcerer, and he visits the town every night, in an attempt to murder all the characters by sunrise. He is accompanied by his skeleton pets, and will explore for treasure along the way. Fortunately, there is a Hero (an avatar character) you can play. You can pick up items during your adventure, but don't pick up something that will break if you equip it. The characters will talk during their exploration, and they'll also comment when they see you pick up something. Also, there are items that you can use to make your character stronger, but you can't carry more than one at a time. They are: * Vite/Bute - To increase your character's HP by 1.5x * Iron/Steel -

To increase your character's strength by 1.5x * Stone/Porcelain - To increase your character's agility by 1.5x * Glow/Light - To increase your character's stamina by 1.5x * Mana - To increase your character's magic power by 1.5x * Fireproof/Insulation - To increase your character's defense power by 1.5x * Gold/Silver - To increase your character's money power by 1.5x It's not just about defeating the sorcerer, though! You can also use the items to claim treasure from the various NPCs in the town. The game is pretty easy to understand: 1. You use the map in the main menu to choose where to go next, and also use the map later to check where you've been before. 2. You talk to NPCs and listen to their conversation at the same time by holding the L button. 3. To make use of items, you have to equip them to your character using the equipped button (square). 4. You can pick up (or drop) items anywhere, but it becomes more effective to do so when you're in a certain situation or have gained a certain amount of EXP. There are three difficulties of levels: easy, normal, and hard. Normal is the easiest setting, and hard is the toughest setting. You get 50 bonus EXP for every hard level completed. Instructions: * Always listen to NPCs that have not yet appeared on the map before, and just talk to them. They won't talk again until you return to that area. * You can assign almost anything to anything. Press the A button when

With The Force For generations, there's been a strange fear surrounding a ring of space rocks called Asteroid, scientists have never really been able to figure out what they are and what they're doing in the solar system. They may have been a threat, but Asteroid somehow always avoided any serious collisions. It could be hiding in a solar system somewhere. But what if we could capture it? Fast-forward to 2014 when the European Space Agency (ESA) launched the BepiColumbo mission to grab Asteroid in 2018, where it will be placed into lunar orbit. During this time, a spacecraft will swoop in and grab Asteroid and take it into space for a closer inspection. They will extract as much rock as possible so researchers can study them, seeing if it has any organic compounds.

Astronomers also plan to study its composition to see if there are more bodies that could impact Earth in the future. And since its an asteroid from space that's been up close and personal with the Sun, any organic elements could also be cooked up, which would make this a very historical mission. Curiosity and the Curiosity mission has already given us a ton of information on Mars. But far more space missions are in the works, including a Mars 2020 rover and a Mars sample return.

So why not send up a few more? The European Union (EU), NASA, and Russia are currently at work on these projects and they're all scheduled for launch. For the time being, the plan is to send two to Mercury, two to Venus and five to the distant asteroids. In a similar vein, scientists are also having a hard time putting in place a permanent space station right now, so why not plan ahead and outfit one in space? And for the first time since 2003, we've got a man on the moon. Now its time for that vacation spot to catch a bit of space. Could it perhaps be the year of exploration? Welcome to Minecraft Earth, where 3D printed Minecraft spaceships have begun to take off, and there's a possibility of a mission to Mars by 2030. On January 20, students at Columbia University created what could be the future of space travel in Minecraft Earth, and its all thanks to Elon Musk. But have we caught up to that milestone in time for our children to be the first ones on Mars? Getting Into A Weird Musical Nowadays you can go buy all kinds of things online with the ChronoClock is a visual novel from the makers of Soul Sacrifice and Dark Souls, the team behind the award winning game Demon's Souls. Set in a post apocalyptic world, players take on the role of a school teacher who meets a girl with seemingly supernatural powers. When the two begin an impossible journey to save the world, they encounter a variety of strange beings that reveal the ultimate nature of the world they live in.

Synopsis There are strange things in the world of ~ChronoClock~. The world that has become a hole in the earth was once a world of hope. After the fall of the government, the world has become a wasteland of violence. Can you save the world before it's too late? Key Features: *7 different endings *25 CGs and more than 100 background images *9 in-depth characters with 8 interaction routes *More than 40 hours of game time(Reuters) - Goldman Sachs Group Inc GS.N said on Thursday it had failed to fully disclose to investors how much of a U.S. subsidiary it controls, which the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is investigating. The eye-catching claim from Goldman Sachs follows an SEC inquiry into how the Wall Street bank reported billions of dollars in profits from its private equity portfolio to investors. Under certain circumstances, the rules require that Goldman reported its stake, in this case roughly $4 billion, as a separate investment, rather than a share of the same private equity deal, known as a pooling of interest. Goldman failed to adequately disclose the circumstances, and instead chose to report the stake as a share of the same private equity deal - indicating that the stake was no bigger than $1 billion. Shares of the New York-based firm fell as much as 4.9 percent, but recovered to close 1.8 percent higher, at $175.41. The case has raised questions about the ability of investors to be notified of such stakes, particularly as a government probe has focused on some of the worst performing deals at Goldman. Goldman has declined to comment on the SEC investigation, adding that it is cooperating with the agency. The SEC will not comment on the status of the Goldman case, a spokeswoman said. MarketWatch, citing an SEC filing last week, reported on Thursday that the SEC had looked into whether Goldman understated the size of its stake in a general partnership that is the
