The new AutoCAD WS is Autodesk's entry into the cloud services market. Autodesk priced the AutoCAD WS service at $14.95 per month per user with a maximum of five users. A year after the AutoCAD WS launch, Autodesk announced that it had agreed to acquire the German company DWG Software to acquire a controlling stake in its Autodesk Application Development company. AutoCAD 2010 is the latest version of the AutoCAD product suite, which was first developed by Digital Design Group, Inc. (DDI) and introduced in 1989. The 2010 release is the first since Autodesk, Inc. acquired DDI in 2005. A key feature of the new AutoCAD WS is the ability to link to a live, high-resolution Web server. In contrast to previously available AutoCAD WS feeds, the AutoCAD WS Web server provides the ability to display large areas of data (e.g., the entire AutoCAD drawing area, or one large section of the drawing). AutoCAD WS can be integrated with other DWG Software solutions and easily accessed from any Web browser or mobile device. The AutoCAD WS Web server provides fully interactive AutoCAD drawings (meant for viewing and editing in a browser) as well as an XML data-file format for integration with other DWG Software applications. The Web and mobile app versions of AutoCAD have approximately the same functionality. The mobile app is ideal for use with an iPhone, iPad, iPod touch, Android tablet, or Android phone. The mobile app supports the Apple iPad, iPhone, and iPod touch. The file can be created by the user directly on the server, or uploaded from any source (for example, a computer file on a USB drive). PDF files uploaded from the Web can be organized into folders. Autodesk is the leader in desktop CAD and design software. But, you might be surprised to learn that only a few hundred thousand people worldwide use AutoCAD in their invention relates to a dielectric filter for selectively passing therethrough a signal in a specific frequency band. 2. Related Art Statement Recently, radio communication equipment including portable telephones have been remarkably spread. Especially, information communication equipment for personal communication service (PCS) is expected to be widely used and sold. Accordingly, radio frequency filters for receiving and passing only a signal in a specific frequency band have been demanded. As a conventional dielectric filter of this kind, a dielectric filter has been known which is provided with, between a cavity and a box-shaped main body, a dielectric block made of a dielectric ceramic material. A first resonator is formed on one surface of the dielectric block. A second resonator is formed on an opposite surface. A plurality of tuning electrodes are disposed around the first and second resonators, respectively. A first external electrode and a second external electrode are respectively connected to the first and second resonators. The first external electrode and the second external electrode are disposed on the one surface of the dielectric block, whereby a first capacitor is formed between the first external electrode and the first resonator and a second capacitor is formed between the second external electrode and the second resonator (see, e.g., Japanese Unexamined Patent Publication No. 3-209194). Also, as another conventional dielectric filter, a dielectric filter has been known which is provided with, between a cavity and a box-shaped main ca3bfb1094

Q: How to change the alert message of Google Cast when a new player is connected? Google Docs has an `onRemoteCastConnected` event you can subscribe to, which fires whenever a new connected player is detected. But I need to do this as a POST request. The event does not seem to have a post option. I cannot find anything in the Google Cast SDK, but does anyone know how this could be achieved in a simple manner? A: You can use the `CastVideosApi` class to make a POST request to the same URL you are POSTing to. More info here: You may need to implement a `cast.media.onAddPlayer` method which receives the URL and the `player_id`, just like the `onRemoteCastConnected` method, or whatever you are using to make the request.

Improvement of respiratory parameters in Japanese patients with bronchiectasis by oral administration of ciclesonide. Respiratory symptoms are the main characteristics of bronchiectasis. This study aimed to evaluate the efficacy of ciclesonide (CS) as an inhaled steroid for bronchiectasis. Twenty-two patients with bronchiectasis were enrolled in this study. The effects of CS on the respiratory symptoms and the pulmonary function were assessed by clinical examination, pulmonary function tests (PFTs), and modified Medical Research Council (mMRC) scale. In addition, the relationships among the improvement rate of respiratory symptoms, the number of exacerbation/year, and the adverse events were also evaluated. The CS treatment decreased the total symptom scores by  $30.5 \pm 7.8\%$  at 1 month and by  $43.6 \pm 10.7\%$  at 3 months. Both the PFT and the mMRC scores decreased significantly compared with the baseline scores after the CS treatment. In the PFTs, the FVC, FEV1, and %FEV1 increased significantly at 3 months. The lowest body mass index (BMI) was also significantly increased. There were no significant differences between the PFT results at baseline and after the CS treatment in terms of the BMI, the number of exacerbation/year, and the adverse events. Our study suggests that CS is a good candidate as an inhaled steroid in the treatment of Japanese patients with bronchiectasis.

At the command line, run `markupassist` for assist you with "marking up" an existing drawing. When `markupassist` is selected, enter the commands. Use `markup-assist-to-edit` to mark up a new drawing. (video: 0:50 min.) In the tutorial, you will import markup for two instances of the same drawing: Sheet 1 and Sheet 2. Sheet 1 has a labeled table, and Sheet 2 has a labeled table and a piece of text, which matches the text in Sheet 1. Sheet 2 has a default text scale. (video: 5:40 min.) Download AutoCAD and Try It!
