About a month ago, my roommate got in touch with me and said that he needed help getting started with making a game using RPG Maker MV. I helped him get started and look over his game, and he's been making progress ever since. His game is based on a fairly similar concept to the game I'm making here, so today I'd like to share how his project has evolved from the beginning to its current state. I know my roommate will be excited about today's development. You may not see the changes as exciting, but for me, it's been more tha ... Read More... What's new in Operation Warcade VR:

Game – It looks simple but required a lot of thought You can download and play this VR technology simulator app at no cost! Although it looks so simple at first, this racing game is not easy at all. In most racing game apps the game courses are preset. However, this VR game designer creates a course based on your choice. There is one more thing you need to know about this racing game. If you lose your speed while overtaking, your car will explode. The technique to play this VR simulator game is quite simple, but the story is quite different. In this VR simulator you have a driver and you must race to pass through the checkpoints on the map. These are your targets for the race. Each checkpoint is a checkpoint for each color. Checkpoints are like dollars in the mobile phone game. To win the race, you must pass through all the checkpoints you need to cross to get the victory. A lot of very different game elements that will allow you to enjoy the VR simulator. These elements also make up the story. Stories and like VR video games are not typical, but are quite different from conventional video games. Many of you might have played the virtual reality racing games that follow along with things that make humans feel more alive. A variety of game elements make this story more exciting. As in the real world, there are a lot of moving parts like wheels that go on and off. Some intersect and others fail. Therefore, you must consider all the mobile phone game elements and consider the real world. If you make a mistake, it's often very hard to get back in the game. On the other hand, if you manage to pass, such a victory can break the heart if you run out of luck. The real world is like that. In any case, I hope you managed to win the race and enjoy the VR simulator game. The tips to play VR simulator app – Put some money on your pocket! To understand this game better, here are a few tips to help you win the race. Tips to Play VR Simulator Game – First of all, you will need to spend some money to win the race.
