Q: App crashes when trying to show an activity I'm trying to build a simple app using Android Studio. I've been doing well with the whole learning Java coding so far, but the current problem I'm stuck with is this one: It seems the app crashes whenever I call a function which is supposed to show one activity. I've tried to get a bit more help, browsing through similar questions as to the error's present, but none of them I found solved my problem. From what I have understood the error occurs when the target activity can't be resolved, and the code has been working as intended up to this day. Here you can see the error: EDIT I've tried putting back various lines of code one by one, and found out that the issue was the Notification class. When ever I used that the App crashes. Here you can find a full copy of my code: package com.

Significant development in the field is the success of Stratux, Inc.'s round success Kickstarter campaign. It has been possible for the form holder to generate 150,000 EUR ($210,000) of venture funds - such as $3.9 Million - in this way. A 2X2Racing game has been very important to Stratux, Inc. as it is a very strong source of generated revenue - as well as recruitment of talented users. 2X2 Racing is a PC game which features 6 cars, 12 tracks and 70 different events. The game has an online multiplayer mode, which supports 12-player simultaneous multiplayer racing. "We were aware that such a game could be a great source of revenue, but we didn't realise it would be possible to get this much venture capital. With 125 backers being able to give €100.00 (equivalent to R2,250), we are confident that the fundraising campaign can continue for at least another three months." Dimitar Anastasov - Stratux, Inc. Director. "The funding goals were achieved quite easily. From the Kickstarter campaign the company has been able to reach a community of 150 000 people. These people contribute a number of additional features. The campaign has also become a platform for attracting new players, as well as for reporting to the publishers, investors and the general public" said Dyo Boychev - 2X2 Racing Game Producer. 2X2 Racing was released on 13 January 2014 as a free download from the 2X2Race website (The game development has been ongoing since March 2012. The game was launched in the Open Beta stage in September 2013 and is still continuing through the post-beta stage. It has a multiplayer mode via the internet, an online leaderboard which is accessed through
