That is far from the truth. I've done things in my life that show I'm not the saint I've been praised to be, and I've experienced much love, and have shared much friendship. I am so fortunate to have met a few wonderful people. And, of course, I've always had incredible loves that I cherish for life. But my road has been a rough one indeed. I've known this truth all my life. And that is truth and compassion and understanding, because I'm human. I don't have any magic answers, and I can't keep people from doing really awful things to others. My only hope, and my prayer, is that people can understand their humanity, and the truth that is in them, and that they can experience the compassion and trust in each other that I'm still trying to learn. my life, my world is my perspective of the world. You can agree or not, it is my world. I can experience my world without judgement. You can be a demon in my world or you can be the

. I couldn't get into the open when I needed to. Long stories short, I had to be the one to end up with the hernia. I had to fully walk back from the passenger side of the car to the driver's side. Then I had to climb back into the passenger side. And then I found out that I had a growth on my prostate. I'm 53. It's the first time I've had one of these, and it's pretty painful. It's about the size of a quarter. I was told that I probably won't see it, which is annoying because I'm a doctor. I called my primary-care physician, and I was referred to a urologist. I've been having a pretty hard time sleeping, thanks to my dog. His name is Minnie. He's 10 years old, and he's a real sweet guy. I think he sensed that his owner was in trouble. I take my heart medication, and it makes me tired. I'm in no shape to work, but my workload is light. Basically, I'm just having to deal with the little stuff. My husband tried to go to work, but he told me he couldn't do it. I'm just glad he took some time off because he gave me the strength to see through the final process. I have pain in my back because of the previous injury. I have to brace myself when I squat or lift things. My left ankle is sore, too. We had all of the doors to the apartment locked, and the pain in my back kept me from lifting the locks. It was all too much. So, I ended up doing it with the help of my friends. They literally took the locks off. I've also had to deal with my dogs. I have two. One is quite old, and he has arthritis, too. A couple of days ago, he passed away. I really miss him. Then there's Minnie. He just wants to be with me all the time. I've had this dog about as long as I've been married to the love of my life. My husband, as you know, has had a really hard time with the stress. For the first two or three
