Commander: The Great War is the spiritual successor to Avalon Hill's World War II strategy game, 1942. Commander was the first modern game to attempt to simulate World War II combat from a realistic position of the Commander at the helm of a major ship. All units are determined by factors such as faction, national origin, and mission. The game features the ability to fly detailed, dynamic terrain maps, with American, German, British, and Japanese "Units of Action" spread out across these maps. Advanced editions contain dozens of more detailed, battle-oriented maps that allow the game to simulate combat on a much larger and grander scale. The battles you fight are full 3D, using dynamic lighting and weather effects to show you the full, dreadful picture of the war as it really happened. Online, this game features real-time multiplayer combat over a huge, dynamic, linked battlefield across 3 dimensions. The battles take place on battlefields that move and grow depending on what the players are doing. The "Battles in Europe", "The Battle of Britain" and "The Battle of the Atlantic" add richness to the game and its historical setting.

They will no doubt enrage some and intrigue others. The additions of "The Western Front" and "The Eastern Front" allow you to play across the entire region and provide brand new challenges and opportunities for strategy. Outreach: To make Commander: The Great War available to everyone everywhere, the publisher is also offering: A free "Drunken" Commodore 64 version of the game A "Commander: The Great War" edition for the Xbox 360 On top of that, we will be offering: New computer versions of the game A free interactive website to add to your gaming experience New Victory and Loss: Victory for the German army in the Western Front will come at great human cost. As in 1942, it will not be easy for the Nazis to win this game. The Allies will put up a fierce fight. In defeating the Axis power, victory in WW II will not come cheaply. About Avalon Hill: The American company Avalon Hill is one of the oldest and most prestigious game publishers in the world. Founded in 1937 by Bruce B. Whitehead and Norbert El

What's new:

The Nibiru voyage saga began in 1988 when a number of UFOwatchers claimed that an unusual-looking disk shaped object, believed to originate from Earth's distant past, had been observed near the place of ancient Atlantis. If the object really did indeed originate from distant space, such a find would be a tremendous discovery, because outer space at Earth's distance is completely dark and has remained so since the melting of the polar ice caps during the last Ice Age 10,000-12,000 years ago. A description of the UFO sighting was published in the magazine Flying Saucer Review on August 20, 1988, under the title "A Mission From the Past?" A number of UFO research organizations were immediately interested in the story and in 1988 attempts were made to obtain photographs of the object. Even though the object was apparently observed at night, photographers were unable to capture usable photographs of it, owing to a lunar eclipse which took place at the time. Follow-up searches by travelers at Atlantis attracted no sightings of the unknown object. A year later, on July 17, 1989, another UFO sighting was reported in the unincorporated community of Udelim, in the province of Chihuahua, Mexico, by an unknown observer. The photographs of the object were sent to the reporter Natalia Bonner, a well-known Mexico City UFO researcher who saw three large disks of different colors, one of them green. A visible white flag was also observed a few times, as well as a small dome. While the objects were interesting enough to be worth examining, there was no certainty that they were indeed extraterrestrial. The first photos taken of the mysterious "UFO" were not made until November 1990 when a small group of UFO investigators, led by Paul LaViolette, visited a small ranch in the middle of the sand dunes of the Colorado Desert. The ranch was right outside the 130 miles (209 km) astride road that leads north out of the border town of El Paso, Texas, towards the New Mexico border, to the ancient ruins of Ptah and, some say, Atlantis. The following year, on November 8 of 1991, a larger group of UFO investigators, comprising led by former dentist and amateur archaeologist George Sturtevant, visited the same area. That same evening, Lucy Gayler landed her single engine Cessna O-1 Bird Dog on the dunes of the Colorado Desert when it was totally dark and stayed overnight for the purpose of obtaining

The mysterious Great People of the Earth, who live in the shadows of history, have seen much change in these lands over the years. Today, the Honshu of Japan and the Korean Peninsula are mere sketchy shapes on the map, while the Mongols are the dominant force of Asia. The people of Japan have seen their land transform from a wilderness inhabited by monsters to a land of wonder and enlightenment - the Edo Period. The people of Korea and Mongolia have seen their lands become the playground of great empires in the Joseon and Yuan Dynasties. In the mountains of China, the mysterious Great People have observed the change from archaic Chinese civilization to a more prosperous and dynamic state. The Organs of the Great People are making their move, and now are moving across the lands of the Far East, in order to find a new place for their universal rule. The time has come to bring new destinies to these lands. PS. The record shows that Haworth was unaware, prior to engaging in such conduct, of the financial status of LJI and of the indebtedness of the other four shareholders of LJI. Her conduct was based upon the word of the president of LJI, G. Herbert Hart, that the LJI pension plan would be favorably considered as the record owner of the realty. Such reliance was in good faith. Further, a business trust such as LJI, is an "artificial entity" which does not enjoy the same protection for its proprietary rights as the natural person. Dunbar Corp. v. Hahn, 251 F. Supp. 607, 614 (S.D. N.Y. 1966). It is obvious that one who engages in business transactions on the basis of erroneous information given him by another must be prepared to accept the consequences of his acts. Trotter v. Devlin, 191 Ark. 170, 84 S.W.2d 74 (1935). We find, from all the facts, that Haworth's conduct was free from any taint of fraud or overreaching. II. Did the chancellor commit manifest error in finding no damage to LJI? LJI contends that the chancellor committed manifest error in finding "no damage" to LJI as a result of Haworth's wrongful conduct. Haworth counters with the argument that damage is a necessary element of
