at. One popular way of carrying a firearm is from an ankle holster. The ankle holster is usually strapped around the lower part of a person's leg, between the ankle and the knee. The lower part of the leg is the area of the leg that is just below the knee and above the ankle. The ankle holster is generally made by a belt that is able to be tightened by a belt and buckle. The ankle holster makes a person's leg look big and wide. This is especially common with men. The wide appearance of the person's leg is a deterrent to vehicle thieves and people that are looking to rob the person
