The aim is to have an efficient and clear presentation of numerical results, in which a variety of sources that can be used for the calculation of stellar structure are included. The paper is organized as follows. Section [sec:description] describes the main features of the code. In section [sec:results], results are presented and compared to other calculations. Section [sec:numerical] deals with the numerical details and the calculation of the final abundances of low mass stars. A discussion is presented in section [sec:discussion] and conclusions are drawn in section [sec:conclusions]. Description of the code [sec:description] ===== The code has been described in detail by [@frt11], hereafter referred to as FFC11, and only a brief summary is given here. The description of the code includes three parts: the input physics, the model assumptions, and the treatment of the neutrinos. The latter can be classified as follows: - 6d1f23a050
