Game Maker Exe Decompiler

February 12, 2020 - So far, games built using GameMaker 8.1, which promises "new, more secure .EXE encryption", have been "protected" from their source code. However, some argue that this was done on purpose. Since some of them have been hacked, Microsoft has announced that Gamesmaker will now encrypt all executable files created with the new version of the engine by default. If you don't know what GameMaker is, it is a free 3D game development environment that allows anyone to create games. Microsoft stated that GameMaker 8.1 was only secure at the hardware level, not at the software level.
