sitemaps are a tool that is used to describe a website in a way that the search engines will understand and find information in the website. the sitemap can be created in the users browser, or downloaded as a program that will then need to be run. the sitemap generator can create an xml, html, or google sitemaps. the user interface is fairly straightforward, though, as a result of the popularity of xml sitemap, it is the type of sitemap that users will find themselves using. to create a new sitemap, the user will first need to select the folder or folder that the sitemap will be placed within. the url of the website will then be selected and then the user can choose whether they want to generate a google sitemap, an xml sitemap, or an html sitemap. the user can also edit the urls to be crawled, the frequency that the sitemap will be updated, as well as the time the sitemap will be cached. once the sitemap has been created, it can be saved to a folder. this will be done automatically for the xml sitemap, but must be done manually for the other two types of sitemaps. the sitemap can then be published to the web, and then entered into the search engines. the sitemap is now published, and can be found by the search engines. the sitemap that is created will now be indexed by the search engines and can be found by users. search engines will analyze the sitemap and index the pages in order to assist users in finding websites, as well as images and videos that are part of the website. if you want your website to be found, this is how you do it. you can now relax and enjoy the fruit of your labor. 5ec8ef588b
