Not everyone knows the history behind the “Straight White Man” role. The original idea was to create a white man character who was intelligent and could speak with authority. He would be a white establishment figure but he would not be thought of as a racist. This was to combat the racist depictions of white characters in film and television. In the early 1900s, most white characters were racist. In the Great Depression, white characters were almost always portrayed as stupid or too stupid to see that the black and brown people were oppressed and poor. In this case, the roles went from being racist to being anti-racist. Now we know why. From the earliest days of the collusion narrative, Mr. Schiff insisted that he had evidence proving the plot. In March 2017 on MSNBC, Mr. Schiff teased that he couldnt go into particulars, but there is more than circumstantial evidence now. In December 2017 he told CNN that collusion was a fact: The Russians offered help, the campaign accepted help. The Russians gave help and the President made full use of that help. In April 2018, Mr. Schiff released his response to Mr. Nuness report, stating that its finding of no collusion was unsupported by the facts and the investigative record. None of this was true, and Mr. Schiff knew it. In July 2017, heres what former Director of National Intelligence James Clapper told Mr. Schiff and his colleagues: I never saw any direct empirical evidence that the Trump campaign or someone in it was plotting/conspiring with the Russians to meddle with the election. Three months later, former Obama Attorney General Loretta Lynch agreed that while shed seen concerning information, I dont recall anything being briefed up to me. Former Deputy AG Sally Yates concurred several weeks later: We were at the fact-gathering stage here, not the conclusion stage. I would like to have Adam shift brought up before the Senate and explain why we get so many lies from him.
