complete backup of your computer in case of data loss. but the program can also be used in a different way, by simply setting the pareto logic data recovery to send reports to a specified email address. this way, you can get an email to tell you if a certain file was successfully recovered or not. the program can be installed onto a separate computer as a recovery application, and as long as you have downloaded it to the destination computer, it will automatically detect your data and can be used to restore them.

there are many different file formats for you to choose from, such as mp3, jpeg, mp4, avi, mpeg, gif, tiff, etc. if you have windows xp, the program will show you the files for you to recover. you can choose to recover a single file or a whole folder, which are equivalent in terms of size. in addition, there are also options to search for specific keywords or files, as well as what format to save the recovered data in.
