Sex Stories Written In Urdu

Ismat Chughtai started writing stories at the age of eleven or twelve but did not publish them under her own name. In 1939, when her first story titled Fasadi published in the distinguished journal Saqi, people thought it was her brother, a well-known writer, Azeem Beg Chughtai had written this story under a pseudonym. Later, in the same year, her stories like Kafir, Dheet, Khidmatgar, and Bachpan stirred the literary circles, and Ismat became known as an eminent author. In 1941 and 1942, two collections of her short stories came out titled Kaliya.n and Chuntii.n. But her most talked-about work came in 1941, Lihaf which explored the intimate relationship between two women, and caused havoc in the preserve of Urdu literature. Ismat was tried for obscenity and such the story became the focal point of her lifes work, so much so that it overshadowed all her remaining works like JoDa, Genda, Nanhi Ki Nani, and Bhool-Bhulaiyan, which were equally well-written.
