user that was last updated for every record in a table. Is there a way to find that out? A: There is no easy way to find that information. You will have to either: create a trigger that will modify a last_update column with some kind of data, that will represent the user ID or code a query that returns the user ID from the last updated records This invention is directed to carpet seaming tapes and more particularly to carpet seaming tapes that can be applied as one single continuous piece of material and which will allow the user to join
