System.Windows.Forms.Timer seems to have only "elapsed event" and "tick event" - when one reads the documentation for the timer "Timer.Elapsed" it states that "The Elapsed event occurs after each timer interval." Is there no way to also provide a counter that increments when a key is pressed or released? A: No, there isn't. The only type of input "event" that a Windows Forms timer can receive is the type of input that you specify in the constructor.
